In regards to Title IX, I find myself constantly shocked to find that the rights to single-sex sports and opportunities are being at risk of being stripped away from girls to prop up an unscientific concept like gender identity. People do not play sports with their gender identities, of which I am told there are now dozens of, they play them based on sex. Female rights are fragile and they must not take a backseat to the push to be seen as inclusive. You can protect trans peoples rights without negatively impacting female rights to fair opportunities and safe-guarding.

A concerned citizen,

Allison.
