"Gender Identity" is a social construct, not based upon material reality, and subsumes "sex" as a classification so that it distorts reality and therefore should not be "protected". If it is to be included, "Gender Identity" must have a very clear definition written into guidance for enforcing these proposed changes to upholding Title IX. Without a clear definition, how can any enforcement of equity be made?

How will Title IX ensure that sex based rights are upheld when they are at odds with "Gender Identity"? Which rights will be upheld?

The rights of all female students should be protected. Sexual orientation should be protected. Gender variant students should be protected.

Thank you for considering the implications of these proposed changes to guidance.
