It is imperative that Title IX protect the rights of girls/ women in education. Those are people who possess XX sex chromosomes, as Title IX originally intended, AND who wish to compete or participate in activities with only other XX individuals. People who identify as girls or women, but have Y sex chromosomes should have a separate category that is also protected. This should include sports, clubs, and use of facilities such as bathrooms, showers, and locker rooms. Do not infringe upon the rights of XX girls and women who do not wish to compete or participate with transgender people. Otherwise one could make a case for reverse discrimination.
