Subject: Title IX Public Hearing regarding Fairness/Due Process in Sexual Assault accusations on college campus

Dear Sir or Madam:

I am writing out of concern for all boys who are falsely accused of sexual assault on college campuses.

Being a strong supporter of Biden and Obama, I oppose Lhamon's appointment, because of the grief he caused by allowing a screwy "administrative process" instead of due process to determine guilt.

The movement to stop sexual assault on college campuses went too far and ended up doing a lot of harm, causing mental health issues and a near suicide (I'm sure more than one, but I'm speaking from my own experience).

Knowing that the employee who is hired by the university to protect the women was the same person that was going to be the "hearing officer" (we expected some sort of impartial judge), and that it would take place in her office, made him feel helpless and hopeless. If it was an honest, fair process, then an audio or video recording should be made of the interviews, so that information can not be changed or invented, and so that prompting can be detected. With no due process, no one knows what was said in the "evidence gathering" process. I was told this was called an "administrative process". Due process is absolutely needed in these cases.

Please do not appoint Lhamon.

Sincerely,
Anonymous
