Stop this insanity now.

I have grown to hate the US system of education with this constant indoctrination of schoolchildren to meet the most insane demands of the trans lobby. I have constantly been complaining to school administrations and have pulled my kids from two schools for this insanity. I have fought back when my children have had to learn the spectrum of gender identities and pulled them from viewing films where they were taught to embrace pansexuality.

My children are not to be pawns in this radical agenda. I would like to partner with my children's teachers, but instead we have regular deprogramming sessions over the dinner table where we discuss how problematic this millennial generation of teachers is. My children would like to go back to learning academic subjects rather than social justice. Social reprogramming is NOT the job of these teachers and school systems – teaching my children math, science, languages and writing is.

While my children know to be kind to all students, including those suffering from gender dysphoria, they will not be bullied into saying trans women are women and other similar social justice nonsense.

My sons play sports competitively and they know that there is no place for biological boys to be competing against biological girls, because it is not a fair competition. It is also deeply unfair to biological girls who believe they are boys, since they will never be strong enough to compete against biological boys in track and field, wrestling, tennis, basketball, etc. Florida, Texas and other states passing legislation to ensure that biological boys cannot compete against biological girls are courageous in preserving girls' sports against this insanity.

My (b)(6) son dreams of running in a Division I college and is working hard to meet the standards of top-tier Division I colleges. Since they are very clearly divided into male and female standards, it's easy to note he has already met the standards for being recruited "as a female". What happens when all the scholarships are going to biological men and women are cut out from these opportunities all together?

We agree schools, teachers and parents should not discriminate on a personal level against these confused children, but this insanity has to stop. Stop indoctrinating children and college students with these dangerous and ridiculous ideas and get back into the business of educating children. America is falling behind the world in education and most (sane) employers do not want to hire social justice warriors. I myself notice I discriminate against young US graduates because they are far less prepared than recent graduates from Europe or Asia, who do not come to the workforce with all the woke baggage of their US or Canadian counterparts.

The Biden Administration & the radical agenda it is pushing is a disaster, but this Gender Equality Act is one of the most dangerous of all. Stop this insanity now. We need the DOE to focus on education, not indoctrination. Otherwise, we will all be fighting for financing to follow the students, whether that be charter schools or homeschooling, and all working towards the demise of the public school system.
